FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

THE ENDOCRINE SOCIETY AND eCLINICALWORKS SIGN PARTNER AGREEMENT

Alliance Helps Bring Unified EMR and Practice Management Solution to 7,000 Member Clinicians

CHICAGO, HIMSS Conference, Booth #668—April 5, 2009—eClinicalWorks®, a market leader in ambulatory clinical systems, today announced that The Endocrine Society® has agreed to partner with eClinicalWorks unified electronic medical records (EMR) and practice management (PM) solution to offer a new benefit to its members, helping physicians implement electronic medical records in their practices.

“The Endocrine Society is committed to offering our members access to the best tools to help them care for their patients,” said Robert M. Carey, M.D., president of The Endocrine Society. “Using electronic medical records can benefit all of our members, regardless of the size of their practice. Through eClinicalWorks, our members can obtain a fully-functional EMR/PM system that is intuitive to use and suitable for any size practice.”

The Endocrine Society, the world’s oldest, largest and most active organization devoted to the clinical practice of endocrinology and hormone research, is a professional association for physicians, clinical and basic scientists who are committed to providing the best in patient care. By working with eClinicalWorks, members of The Endocrine Society will be able to streamline internal processes, including scheduling appointments, creating electronic medical records, and billing. This allows healthcare providers to spend more time with patients and less on administrative duties, in addition to increasing the quality of patient data.

“eClinicalWorks is devoted to delivering an EMR/PM solution that is versatile enough to meet the individual needs of medical facilities,” said Girish Kumar Navani, CEO and co-founder of eClinicalWorks. “The Endocrine Society’s support of this technology is a testament to the value of our system. We look forward to working with the Society to equip its members with the latest technology that will advance the quality of care delivered to their patients, including diabetes care guidelines directly in the EMR.”

eClinicalWorks’ award-winning EMR solution provides the ability to manage patient flow, access patient records in-house or remotely, communicate electronically with referring physicians, and send secure consult notes and clinical data. Users can easily access and review complete patient histories, including past visits, current medications, allergies, labs and charts. The system will also help with reporting and clinical guidelines, and provide patient information, including problem lists, allergies, medication history and lab results. Unified with the EMR is eClinicalWorks Practice Management system, designed to streamline the medical billing process.
