FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

TUFTS MEDICAL CENTER AND NEQCA SELECT eCLINICALWORKS EMR/PM

New England Quality Care Alliance, Inc. (NEQCA) and Tufts Medical Center are Implementing Unified Electronic Medical Records and Practice Management System to Improve Efficiency and Patient Care

ORLANDO, Fla., eCLINICALWORKS USERS CONFERENCE—November 3, 2008—

eClinicalWorks®, a market leader in ambulatory clinical systems, today announced that Tufts Medical Center and the New England Quality Care Alliance, Inc. (NEQCA), the physician network of Tufts, have selected eClinicalWorks unified electronic medical record (EMR) and practice management (PM) software, placing the system in both the academic and community settings. As part of this agreement, eClinicalWorks EMR/PM software is available to nearly 900 primary care and specialty physicians as well as 421 residents. eClinicalWorks Patient Portal will also be used to improve patient communication.

“As one of the nation’s leading academic medical centers, Tufts Medical Center continuously looks to new initiatives that will positively impact patient care,” said Ellen Zane, president and CEO of Tufts Medical Center. “This single electronic medical record system will connect our academic medical center with physicians located in a variety of practice settings throughout the community. It is a unique arrangement that will give us the most comprehensive and up-to-date information possible on our patients, enabling us and our physician partners to deliver better, more comprehensive care.”

Tufts Medical Center and NEQCA members will implement eClinicalWorks unified EMR/PM software to have one system across the network of providers—connecting community physicians with local hospitals and the academic center. This system will streamline clinical processes between practice locations and promote patient safety while reducing costs. The Patient Portal will provide a secure, online means for patients to communicate with their doctor’s office for aspects of care including patient statements and education.

“Our member physicians have been looking for one comprehensive system that would help with patient care throughout the network,” said Jeffrey Lasker, MD, CEO/CMO of New England Quality Care Alliance, Inc. (NEQCA). “Our physicians wanted a product that was intuitive to use and a company that would partner with us on new innovations.”

eClinicalWorks EMR/PM will help with reporting and clinical guidelines, provide patient information, including problem lists, allergies, medication history and lab results. Interfaces with area hospitals’ in-patient systems will allow for information, such as discharge summaries, to be shared with the patient’s regular physician. These tools will help improve patient safety and the quality of care received.

“Tufts is a well-known leader in providing excellent patient care,” said Girish Kumar Navani, CEO and co-founder of eClinicalWorks. “We take a great deal of pride in being chosen by the most top-rated academic organizations in the country. Our successful track record helps distinguish eClinicalWorks from other systems and we look forward to working with Tufts Medical Center and NEQCA to meet their collective goals.”
